

The Effectiveness Company Supply Chain Management

Imagine having the ability to know exactly what your suppliers and distributors are doing at all times – and vice versa.

Supply chain management (SCM) is the management of a network of interconnected businesses involved in the ultimate provision of product and service packages required by end customers.

EFFECTIVENESS COMPANY

The Challenge

Supply chain management (SCM) is the management of a network of interconnected businesses involved in the ultimate provision of product and service packages required by end customers. Supply chain management spans all movement and storage of raw materials, work-in-process inventory, and finished goods from point of origin to point of consumption thus creating a value chain.

The Solution

However, increased availability of supply chain management resources now makes it possible for enterprises to focus more on their respective core competencies while, at the same time, begin utilising outside supply chain management assistance to bolster their bottom lines. Still, many organisations may find themselves forced to utilise the services of multiple support providers in order to ensure that all of the critical components of an overall supply chain management model will ultimately be employed to ensure “total enterprise support”.

Our ISO certified processes ensure that all your tasks will be handled with the utmost efficiency, quality and security measures in place. We understand that your requirements are unique, and we work with you to ensure our solutions will work to your advantage.

We have invested significantly in our procurement offerings by enhancing our capabilities in a number of areas.

We have refined our technology approach to offer platform-based procurement outsourcing solutions that combine the benefits of service delivery excellence with improved automation.

The Benefits

Minimised Delays

Many supply chains – particularly those that haven’t been enhanced by means of an outsourcing solution – are plagued by delays that can result in poor relationships and lost business. Late shipments from vendors, slow downs on production lines, and logistical errors in distribution channels are all common issues that can negatively impact a company’s ability to satisfy customer demand for its products.

With our solution, all activities can be seamlessly coordinated and executed from start to finish, ensuring much higher levels of on-time delivery across the board.

Enhanced Collaboration

Imagine having the ability to know exactly what your suppliers and distributors are doing at all times – and vice versa.

Our solution makes that possible, bridging the gap between disparate business processes at remote locations to dramatically improve collaboration among supply chain partners. With supply chain outsourcing, all participants can dynamically share vital information – such as demand trend reports, forecasts, inventory levels, order statuses, and transportation plans – in real-time. This type of instantaneous, unhindered communication and data-sharing will help keep all key stakeholders informed, so supply chain processes can run as flawlessly as possible.

Reduced Costs

Supply chain outsourcing can help reduce overhead expenses in a variety of ways. For example, it can:

- Improve inventory management, facilitating the successful implementation of just-in-time stock models, and eliminating the strain on real estate and financial resources caused by the need to store excess components and finished goods.

- Enable more effective demand planning, so production output levels can be set to most effectively address customer requirements – without the shortages that result in lost sales, or the waste that drains budgets.
- Improve relationships with vendors and distributors, so purchasing and logistics professionals can identify cost-cutting opportunities such as volume discounts.
